Best Time To Visit Antarctica

Best time to go to Antarctica for Cruising and Other Adventure Activities

As the northernmost continent of the world, Antarctica offers a unique journey into frozen landscapes that you won't find anywhere in the world. This snowy pristine wilderness is home to a wide variety of polar wildlife. The spectacular scenery is truly a masterpiece. The thrilling scenery will provide you with an awe-inspiring view to enjoy with the naked eye.

Nearly 60% to 90% of the world's freshwater is trapped in the vast ice sheets of Antarctica. The Antarctic ice sheet is the largest on Earth with an area of around 14 million km² (5.4 million square miles) involving Antarctic mountains, valleys, and plateaus. Antarctica may be the harshest and most inhospitable place on earth, but it's also emerged as one of the best vacation destinations in the world. Avid adventure travelers can now travel to this part of the world even by plane or cruise ship.

What are the breathtaking things to do in Antarctica?

- Camp under the stars
- Go kayaking
- Do a polar jump
- Skiing in the snowy mountains
- Visit a scientific research station
- Crossing the Drake Passage
- Photography practice
- Climb the highest mountain in Antarctica

Best Time to Visit Antarctica

November to March is regarded as the best time to visit Antarctica which will be a short expedition to this ice continent. This is the best time for visiting Antarctica because the ice starts to melt during this period allowing the ships to pass. The iceberg maximizes in November and remains sculptural and surreal. Twenty hours of sunshine from December to January provide pleasant warmth. Temperatures are above freezing, creating the perfect environment for baby seals, penguin chicks, and whales.

Polar Holidays, a top-notch Antarctica tour operator is engaged in providing travel and booking polar expedition cruises for the last two decades. It is well-versed with all the nitty-gritty of Antarctica cruise trips.
